Last week we held the Boys’ and Girls’ nights and all reports indicate a fantastic night for all. Thank you to staff and parents who came along and made the night enjoyable. Mick Denyer and Mark McCormack almost took out the ‘EggToss’ competition only to be beaten by Jayden Mclean and Chris Ryall in the failing light. Well done. Special thanks to Dr Rodney Kurtzer and Dr Jennifer Smith for taking time to discuss health and wellbeing with our students. Dr Smith is visiting the school today.

WOW, we now have a new 3D printer. The new printer is able to create objects designed from our Creo software. Students will be able to create scale models of their major works in Industrial Technology and other curriculum areas. This new technology is quite amazing and steps us into the next generation of design and technology.

Our school is participating in the Nationally Consistent Collection of Data on School Students with Disability (NCCD) in 2014. Distributed with today’s newsletter is a letter providing information about this collection and a notification if you don’t want your child’s information released. If you wish to participate there is no need to return the form.

Always good to celebrate the Queen’s Birthday long weekend and it’s good to see all have returned safe and sound. I am looking forward to catching up with everyone at the P&C meeting this Tuesday night at 7.30 in the school library.

Please be mindful that there are other children who are more susceptible to these conditions and take longer to recover.

Sick Bay is not a recovery zone, but a treatment area for incidents that occur at school – not pre-existing conditions. Children are given lots of care at our school, so we seek you co-operation in this instance.
